THE EXHIBITION AT THE LIBRARY

Boys Have an Interesting Collection.

Indian Relics, North Carolina Stones, Ancient Weapons, Coins and Many Interesting Articles Found—Many Articles Made by Boys of City and County—The Wireless Apparatus Most Interesting — Many Viewed Collection Yesterday.

Never before in the history of the Public Library has there been so interesting a collection within its walls as was on display in the lecture room yesterday afternoon. Hundreds of Greensboro people visited the room and all were loud in their praise of the efforts of those who are participating in the event.

The exhibition is composed of relics collected by the boys of Greensboro and Guilford county, articles manufactured by them and curios of almost every description gathered by the boys. Lastly there are numerous instruments used in sending and receiving wireless messages. In fact the room is well filled with the collection and many of the exhibits could not be bought with love or money.

A number of marshals were on duty yesterday and they presided over the different exhibits and explained how they had been gathered together by the owners. Ancient guns, pistols, bayonets, powder horns and flasks, swords, cutlasses, Indian arrow heads, tomahawks, hoes, axes and other Indian implements of the days before the white man were on display. Some of the guns were of revolutionary fame, while others were from battlefields of the Civil War. In fact one section of the room was a regular arsenal of ancient weapons. On the side of the room were blankets and other cloth material used in the long ago.

In another part of the room was a case containing eggs of every description from that of the ostrich to the chipping sparrow. Adjoining this display along the wall were a number of pictures of the different specimens of birds, the name and place of habitation of each being written on each picture.

Another case contained a collection of North Carolina germs and stones.

In another place was a large show case filled with coins. Fully five hundred different coins are on display, many being collected by the boys. There is also a huge card filled with stamps from nearly every country in the world.

Then there are drawings, woodwork and many articles made by the boys.

While each of the exhibits was viewed with much interest and in many cases considerable curiosity the center of attraction was the electrical exhibit. A considerable portion of the electrical apparatus was made by Greensboro boys out of odds and ends of wire, copper materials purchased from the junk shop and wooden boxes. The boys were busy sending messages across the room and the sound waves could be heard distinctly. It would have been easy for a person familiar with the code to have transmitted messages from one station to the other. The batteries and paraphernalia to be placed over one's ears practically constitute the apparatus not homemade and while the instruments are somewhat crude they answer the purpose the same as those of costly manufacture.

Many other portions of electrical apparatus are on display and these can be used to advantage. The boys, who have been instructed in this work by Prof. Hammell, are thoroughly familiar with electrical apparatus such as is used in and around wireless stations as a talk with them will show. Their knowledge of the technical terms used is indeed beyond the conception of the average layman and is conclusive proof that with a little more experience and study along this line they will become electrical experts, capable of making almost if not anything in the electrical line.

The exhibition will be open to the public from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. today and every person in the city should avail themselves of the opportunity to view this interesting exhibit. In this way the boys will be encouraged to press forward to larger and bigger fields of endeavor. And every one who visits the exhibit will feel that they have missed a great opportunity somewhere in their lives for displaying their collective habits if not along the lines of inventive genius; also each one will receive something of an educational value for the collection is as instructive as it is interesting.

Prizes have been offered the boys and these will be awarded this afternoon and the winners announced tomorrow morning. The public is extended a most cordial invitation to visit the exhibition today.

The Indian brave whose presence at the exhibition was announced for yesterday found it impracticable to be present, but The Telegram is advised that he will surely be on hand today and can be seen at 3 p. m. inspecting the Indian exhibit.

BABY'S CRY SAVED FATHER

Judge Reduced Sentence of Man Who Taught Boy To Steal.

Washington, Nov. 25.—The plaintive cry of a tiny baby saved Louis Rosenbaum, the father, three years and six months at hard labor. Rosenbaum made a confession in court today that for several months past he had engaged in the nefarious practice of schooling boys in crime.

At the point when sentence was about to be imposed, which Judge Mullowny had decided would be a year for each of four cases, the soft wail of Rosenbaum's little child, reposing on its mother's breast, broke the tense stillness of the courtroom.

"For the sake of that child," said Judge Mullowny, "you may take six months in jail for two cases and I will parole you for six months on the others."

Rosenbaum was arrested several days ago and four charges of petit larceny were placed against him. It was alleged that Rosenbaum, like a modern Fagin, had taught four small boys to steal "C. O. D." packages from delivery wagons and by hurrying to the residences, deliver the packages and collect the money. He confessed that the charges were true. His wife, heart-broken at his disgrace, almost collapsed, weeping pitifully.

NOTED PIANIST COMING

Miss Kober, of the Sherwood School of Music, To Be Here Several Days

Miss Georgia Kober, vice president and leading pianist of the Sherwood School of Music of Chicago and principal of the Summer School of Music of New York, will arrive tomorrow and will be the guest for several days of Miss Florence Hunt at Mrs. Charles Denny's on West Market street.

Miss Hunt has issued invitations to a reception which she will give in her studio in the Southern Life and Trust building Monday evening in honor of Miss Kober.

Tuesday at 5 p. m., at Miss Hunt's studio Miss Kober and Mrs. B. C. Sharpe will give an interpretative reading, with musical setting, of Peer Gynt. This will be open only to Miss Hunt's pupils and their parents.

On the evening of December 3 Miss Kober will give a recital at the Normal College.

THE INJUNCTION GRANTED.

Federal Court Stops Work of City of Burlington In Opening Up a Street.

In United States court yesterday morning Judge Boyd signed an order granting the Southern Railway Company an injunction against the City of Burlington, whereby the city is prevented from opening a street across the railway lines of the plaintiff. Judge Boyd warned the city to show cause why the injunction should not be made permanent. The Southern contends that the opening up of the street in question would greatly hinder its trains in shifting and passing, the proposed street being across the yards of the company.

Col. W. B. Rodman, of Charlotte, and E. S. Parker, Esq., of Graham, represent the railroad, while King & Kimball, of this city, and W. H. Carroll appear for Burlington.

Special Sermon To the Juniors.

Sunday, Nov. 27th, 1910, at 3 p. m., Rev. W. K. Horner will preach a special sermon to the Jr. O. U. A. M. at Walnut Street Baptist church. All members of the order are requested to meet in the hall of Keystone Council No. 81, over Proximity Mercantile Company, at 2:30 p. m., from where they will march in procession to the church. A cordial invitation is extended to all members of the D. of L. to attend this service with the Junior Order.

Mirrors are flat, but never flatter.

CONTRACT FOR SCHOOL BUILDING

Authorized by Aldermen Last Night.

Recommendations of Board of Education Approved and Necessary Papers Will Be Drawn Up At Once—Work on Handsome Structure to Begin At Early Date—Other Business Attended To By the Aldermen Last Night.

At last night's meeting of the Board of Aldermen the City Board of Education, through Mr. C. M. Vanstory, recommended that the contract for the erection of the new Central High School building be awarded; also the contract for the plumbing. Mr. Vanstory stated that the lowest bidder for the building was the Central Carolina Construction Company, the bid being $20,950. The lowest bid for the plumbing was by Adams & Hunt, their bid being $1,890. The board adopted the recommendations and the contract will be drawn at once in order that the work may begin as speedily as possible.

As to the plumbing it was suggested that the board of education look further into the style of closets specified as it was not thought that this style would prove satisfactory.

Mr. Vanstory stated that the board hoped that there would be sufficient funds to thoroughly ventilate the building and for this reason the heating contract had not been let. The board wished to thoroughly investigate the several systems of ventilation and install the best the amount of funds would permit. A meeting of the board will be held Tuesday night for this purpose.

Mr. W. B. Allen, proprietor of the Allen House, Buchanan street, came before the board and asked that his place be put under the head of boarding houses instead of hotels on the license tax books. The license tax is $25 on hotels of under 20 rooms and on boarding houses only $10. Mr. Allen stated that while he did transient business he did no more than practically all boarding houses and he thought it only right that he should be so classed. His place, he said, has none of the appointments of a hotel and contains only nine rooms. The tax was a hardship on him, he said. No action was taken.

Phibbs & Ryan were granted license to conduct a meat market at the corner of South Elm and McCulloch streets.

The Street Commission recommended in the matter regarding the burning of a barn on Mrs. Schenck's place on Gorrell street that the city pay $25 damages, it being alleged that the fire was caused by a spark from the city steam roller. The commission also stated that there was some doubt as to the cause of the fire and for this reason the matter was left open until a complete investigation could be made.

The board authorized the payment of Judge Caldwell's fee in handling the school bonds.

Several ordinances relative to the collection of the cost of paving sidewalks for certain parties were passed.

City Attorney Shaw announced that the cost in the Supreme Court in the Gilbreath case were about $9. This amount was ordered paid.

Chief Neelley brought up the matter of disposing of Jake, the veteran fire and patrol horse, and the police committee was authorized to dispose of the animal. The idea is to sell him to a responsible party or to place him where he will be well cared for.

Alderman Albright brought up the matter of putting a wash basin in the police office. At present the officers have no place to wash their hands and often come in with their hands dirty after handling a filthy negro. The city hall committee was instructed to have a basin put in, the cost to not exceed $40.

Several other matters were brought up and the board did not adjourn until after 10 o'clock.

Small Fire Yesterday.

An oil stove exploded in the bath room of Mr. Levi Scott's residence, corner Fayetteville and Arlington streets, yesterday morning about 6:30 o'clock and the carpet and flooring caught. The firemen were called out, the chemicals extinguishing the flames. The damage was slight.

FORENSIC FRAY AT THE NORMAL

Interesting Literary Event Last Evening.

Cornelian and Adelphian Representatives Debated Live Issue In Masterful Way —The Inaugural of a Permanent Feature of College Life—The Judges Decided In Favor of the Negative Debaters.

The first annual inter-society debate ever held in the State Normal and Industrial College occurred last evening in the auditorium of the Students' building, between representatives of the Adelphian and Cornelian Literary societies. A large number of Greensboro people were out and heard with interest the able arguments set forth by the respective debaters. The affirmative was upheld by the Adelphians, Misses Minnie Littman and Lucy Landon, while Misses Lelia White and Nora Carpenter, of the Cornelians, argued in the negative. The latter won.

The chairman of debate, Miss Rose Battesman announced, to the pleasure of all present, that it was the purpose of the societies to make this first debate the inaugural of a permanent feature of the college life.

The secretary, Miss Myrtle Johnston, read the rules of debate and announced the following query: Resolved, that our immigration laws should be further restricted by an educational test. She then announced the first speaker for the affirmative, Miss Lucy Landon.

Miss Landon argued that no alien over sixteen years of age should be admitted as a citizen, who could not read and write; that while such law would certainly be ineffective in some cases it would tend in general and ultimately to raise the present standard of American citizenship. Up to 25 years ago the immigrants who came to American shores were from Northern Europe, where there was a high order of intelligence; these were assimilated and have helped to make America a great nation; but now, Miss Landon averred, the reverse is true and we are receiving yearly a horde of illiterate and densely ignorant people from Hungary, Roumania, Bohemia, Bulgaria, Italy and other semi-barborous countries, whose manners, customs, habits, and training, so far as training goes, bar them from amalgamation, and whose worth is proportional to their illiteracy.

Miss Lelia White, the first speaker on the negative side, said that the question was not one of revenue and educational fitness, but of humanity; that the foreigner has aspirations, hopes, fears, the same as we; and set forth the present acts of exclusion, averring that they were sufficient without adding another: that an educational test would stigmatize the honest, well-meaning immigrant simply because he had not had an opportunity to read and write. She said that the test should be one mainly of honesty, and showed that the tests we have already were not used efficiently by the examiners, when only two minutes was given to each applicant, and 70 per cent are admitted; that if we had better facilities and if more time were given in the examination, no further test would be needed. "Let us think less of the evil which they bring," she said, "and more of the good. We are yet in the making, ourselves, and not the finished product. Many of them come from countries where the artistic temperament is highly developed, and are, in truth, teaching us more than we are willing to thank them for."

The next affirmative speaker, Miss Minnie Littmann, declared that if we are to maintain a high order of morals and a proper standard of citizenship, we must be very careful of the class of people who are to be admitted as citizens; that the relation between criminality and illiteracy are marked; that in the countries where the people are educated the number of criminals is manifestly less than where they are not given proper educational advantages; and that the anarchists come from those countries where people do not know to write their names. She averred that 98 out of every 100 of those coming from such countries as Turkey, Roumania, and other eastern countries were not desirable citizens; and said that the educational test would therefore bar many of them from entering our ports.

Miss Nora Carpenter, the second speaker for the negative, said that the educational test would be disastrous to the welfare of the nation, both present and future; that America owes its thanks to the foreigner who has come to us with strength and a willingness to work; she asked to know what would become of this great industrial nation should stagnation set in because of our inability to get laborers? "It is not the ability to read and write, but muscular strength and a willingness to work that have contributed to the wonderful growth of our country." She said that the development of our great resources would be affected if we should exclude the foreigner because of an educational test. She said the German Emperor had invited the Italians to Germany because they were needed there as laborers; that there was no competition with the foreigner, but where there was competition it was with the German and the Jew who were above performing common labor.

Each speaker was allowed ten minutes for rebuttal, and some forceful argument was produced.

The debate was highly creditable to the young ladies and to the college they represent. The question was an important one, and one requiring a vast amount of thought and research, and it is to be doubted if some of the ablest citizens could have surpassed those young women who so ably defended their respective sides in the question at issue on last evening.

The judges were: Rev. Melton Clark and Messrs. J. L. Mann and G. A. Grimsley. The question was decided for the negative.

A SHOWER OF TOWELS

Mrs. Elmo M. Sellars Entertains For Miss Allie Vickory.

Mrs. Elmo M. Sellars entertained a number of her friends yesterday afternoon in honor of Miss Allie Vickory, who is to be married on December 7 to Mr. Eugene W. McNairy.

The parlor, dining room and hall were thrown together and decorated with ferns. The game of "hearts" was the feature of the evening after which delicious refreshments were served.

Then "Aunt Tet," an old family servant, made her appearance carrying what looked to be a family washing, tied up in a gingham apron, but which proved to be a shower of towels of every description which she presented to Miss Vickory.

Those who contributed to this shower were Misses Lochie Stover, Lizzie Pruden, Marguerite Hallady, Annie Preyer, Bessie Coffin, Mabel Ridge, Bessie Grissom, Delphine Smith, Bessie McNairy, Marjorie Long, Bonnie Bishop, Annie Tate, Margaret Sellars and Mesdames. Elmo Sellars, L. K. Thompson, A. B. High, C. T. Lipscomb, Fred Sparger, Floyd Lambe, B. T. Hooper, B. F. Page, Oscar Bailey, Leonard Faulconer, Wistar Stockard, Sidney Peters.

OPENING DAY AT WILLS'

The Beautiful in Art Finds Expression In Their Modern Store.

That we are at present living in an age of the beautiful is manifest to any one who has the initiative and the inclination to visit such a store as that conducted by the Wills Book and Stationery Company. On yesterday they were at home to all such as love the true and the beautiful in literature and the printer's art, this being the first formal Christmas opening yet held in the city. Crowds of people were passing through their doors throughout the day, and each one was presented with a Christmas souvenir, upon which was printed some expression of holiday greeting and appreciative sentiment. This side of New York one could not find a more excellent assortment of good books, pictures, and novelties than was displayed on the shelves and counters of the Wills' store on yesterday.

S. S. Teachers Class At Y. W. C. A.

The attention of all Sunday School teachers, members of Philathea and Baraca classes and others interested, is called to the Sunday School teachers training class which meets at the Young Women's Christian Association rooms every Saturday evening from 8 to 9. This class is taught by Rev. R. Murphy Williams and is open to both men and women.

Hodges—Vanstory.

On Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. C. P. Vanstory, East Market street, Miss Annie Vanstory became the bride of Mr. Walker Hodges. Rev. Melton Clark officiated in the presence of a number of friends and relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Hodges left for a trip south and on their return will be at home, 208 East Market street.

WHITSETT

Classes Organize For the Year—Many Visitors At Whitsett For Thanksgiving.

Whitsett, Nov. 25.—The classes organized some time ago for this year. Mr. Samuel P. Jones, of Person county, was elected president of the Junior class, and Mr. Henry B. Carawan, of Pamlico county, president of the Senior class.

Many visitors have been here for Thanksgiving this year, while numbers of the students have been away on visits to their homes.

For some years the school has issued annually a calendar. It will come from the press next week, and will be the best one yet sent out by the Institute. Last year scores of the readers of this paper sent for a copy, and all who write in time will be supplied with the new calendar for 1911. It has a new design showing many scenes around the school.

Two parties were here this week looking for houses to rent in order to place students in school for the spring term.

Quite a number of new students will enter at the opening of the spring term which occurs this year on January 4th.

The Star Circle holds its usual mid-term entertainment on Saturday evening of this week.

Great interest is being taken in the debates to be held in the next few weeks by the Athenian and Dialecttic Literary Societies.

Kitchen Roof on Fire.

Yesterday at noon the roof of the kitchen of Mr. Thomas Pemberton's residence caught on fire from a falling spark. The alarm was turned in and the Southsides had the fire out when the other companies arrived. The wind was blowing at a great velocity at noon and but for the fact that Southside fire station was only doors away the fire would have been a serious one.

EMMA GOLDMAN, ANARCHIST.

Baltimore Sun.

A quiet little woman with silky brown hair, blue eyes enlarged by thick, scholarly glasses, an aesthetic face, hands that lay in her lap as if they missed her knitting—that was the disappointingly tranquil and peaceful sort of woman Emma Goldman, the anarchist lecturer, was last night in the lobby of the New Howard Hotel soon after she arrived in Baltimore.

Miss Goldman is 41 years old. She had an adventurous career for 25 years, and she has worried many police chiefs. Sometimes she has been arrested. She has seen crowds of men answer her call for "freedom," but last night she was more like a school teacher than a "red."

But Miss Goldman has a gospel to preach that is rather at odds with her attractive appearance.

"I think government should be abolished," she said. "They are an expense. There should be no police force, no taxes, no laws, no religion, no convention."

"What would you substitute?" she was asked.

"Freedom. Men can govern themselves Woman should be made a man's equal and put on the same plane. She should have the same earning capacity. All earnings should go into the general storehouse. Money should not be continued as the sole method of barter. A man need only produce as much as he and his family need. He can work 15 years and produce enough to last for his life. He can then stop work."

"How about religion?"

"I teach no divinity—nothing but the materialistic ideas of life. I believe personally in the idea of evolution. People think too much of the theological side and shirk responsibilities in life."

"And marriage?"

"We need no marriage. Freedom is what is right. Love should mate people. Make woman's earning capacity the same as a man's. If her husband leaves her she can rear the children. We want to teach men and women not to mate until they can support children; then we want to teach them not to produce unhealthy children. Science will find a way—it is doing so rapidly, of rearing a race of healthy people, not the result of accident. Men should bring children into the world by love, not accident or necessity.

"What would you do with a man who harms a woman in the way which means hanging him now?"

"We would have no law, no jails or penitentiary. His deed would be the result of a mental derangement. We would treat him and sympathize with him, not kill him."

"How soon will all this take place?"

"I would not like to prophesy. There is an unrest in America. The people revolted against the tariff. They will get no better from the Democrats unless they compel the politicians to give it to them."

"Will the institution of anarchy, if it comes, come by bloodshed?"

"It will not come by pink teas o kaffe klatches. The American nation had to have a Boston tea party—Bunker Hill. Anarchy will come by a revolution—a bloody revolution, yes, but first we must prepare the minds of the people. A bomb is thrown in Europe. That is the act of one man, crazed by oppression, who goes back to a position worse than before. We teach people to wait and think and prepare; the time for the revolution is not yet ripe."

"Are there anarchists in Baltimore?"

"Yes, many among the Italians, Poles, Lithuanians and Jews. There are some at Johns Hopkins University.

"And do you practice the tenets of anarchy in your private life?"

"Yes. I am a student, a reader; my life is quiet; I associate with people who think as I do, and I am a free woman."

Miss Goldman is to lecture at Union Hall this afternoon and tonight.

DISPUTED POSSESSION

By EDITH V. ROSS

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

"I am sorry, Miss Martindale," said John Rogers, real estate agent, "that you didn't close with me yesterday. Mr. Robert Eldridge has just signed a lease of the property."

"I understood that you gave me a refusal."

"You were mistaken."

Miss Martindale had suddenly discovered that she wanted the flat in question very much. She was disappointed.

"I'm going to have it anyway," she said.

"I would like to know how?" asked Mr. Rogers.

"I know who this man Eldridge is; he's Bob Eldrige of the Atheneum club, a bachelor. He doesn't need the flat and I do. He has no family, while I have my mother and little brother."

"Will you kindly inform me what that has to do with property for which a written lease has been given?"

"No, but I will show you."

Miss Martindale lived across the street from the apartment house in question, and when she saw Bob Eldridge enter it she went over and up to the flat. Opening the door, she went in and, seeing the gentleman there, looked surprised.

"If you are looking at this flat," she said, "with a view to taking it you are too late. I have just notified the agent that I would take it."

"Pardon me, madam," with an apologetic smile, "it is you who are mistaken. I have my lease here in my pocket."

He took it out and showed it to her.

She waved it aside. "That's nothing," she said. "Everybody knows that a verbal lease is good. Mine is verbal. I have had the refusal of these rooms for a week."

"You must be mistaken. Mr. Rogers said nothing about having given any one a refusal."

"I am not accountable for Mr. Rogers' blunders. I must ask you to retire. I am desirous of having the rooms cleaned before moving in and wish to see what's to be done."

"Did Mr. Rogers give you the key?"

"No; he said that you had taken the key."

"He gave it to me. I will retire. You can easily get out from within."

Now, Mr. Eldridge was a gallant man and would doubtless have scorned to push his claims, however just, against a woman. But in this case the lady was under the disadvantage of being very attractive. I say disadvantage because her attractiveness prompted Mr. Eldridge to enter upon a contest with her that he might thus bring about an acquaintance. He bowed himself out very politely, hat in hand, and departed—with the key.

Miss Martindale noticed this feature of the case and felt that she had received a check. She knew that the key is nine points in the law governing the occupancy of houses and considered herself temporarily defeated. She had no key from which to have a duplicate made. She might get a locksmith to come and fit a key, but that would require time, and meanwhile Mr. Eldridge might move in. In any event he had a key to the premises and could get in when he liked.

Miss Martindale concluded to change her tactics. She wrote a note to Mr. Eldridge, which she sent through Mr. Rogers, stating that since it seemed that there had been a mistake made by the agent in renting the premises to two different persons she thought the one least needing them should give way to the other; that she represented a family of three and if Mr. Eldridge stood for more than that she would give way to him. If not she thought he should give way to her.

Mr. Eldridge replied that he had rented the flat intending to turn it over for a meeting place and supply depot for a ladies' charitable society; therefore he thought that Miss Martindale should give way to this society.

Miss Martindale knew that this was a subterfuge, but she didn't see how should could take that ground with Mr. Eldridge. Again, she felt that she was defeated, and again she changed her tactics. Feeling confidence in her persuasive powers—with a man—she wrote Mr. Eldridge a second note, sending it through the same medium, proposing a conference. Mr. Eldridge, instead of replying to the note, surprised her with a call.

Mr. Eldridge was dressed with far more care than was to be expected in one who had called on a mere matter of business. He wore a frock coat, blue cravat with white dots and gloves without blemish. Miss Martindale received him graciously and was sure they would reach an understanding. She proposed a compromise. He assented. Then she named a compromise which would be perfectly satisfactory—viz, that Mr. Eldridge give up the flat to her.

They got no further during the evening nor during a number of evenings that Mr. Eldridge made other calls. The flat remained vacant, Mr. Eldridge paying the rent.

One day Miss Martindale called on Mr. Rogers with an order from Mr. Eldridge for the key of the disputed flat. When he gave it to her he said:

"You told me you would show me how you would win. Kindly do so."

"Mr. Eldridge will occupy the flat with us," she said. "We are to be married next week."

The official count shows Dr. Faison's majority in the Third Congressional district to have been 3000. And there were folks with little enough political gumption to fear that he would be defeated.

The Greensboro Telegram says the Democrats are divided on the wisdom of the proposed conference of leaders in Baltimore. As a matter of fact, are there any subjects on which the Democrats are not divided?—The Caucasian.

Not many, we are free to confess. They are pretty much like the Republicans in that respect.

The Democrats of New York are hunting around for a suitable man to succeed Chauncey M. Depew in the United States Senate. Of course it will be easy to get a more suitable man than Depew has been but for the sake of the Democracy of the nation it is to be hoped that a very much more suitable man than Depew will be found. Edward M. Shepard, of Brooklyn, is the man most discussed in connection with the place. He is an extremely brilliant man. Somebody has spoken of him as "a thinking machine geared at all times to the speed limit." But he is a corporation lawyer and his selection would not be in line with the progressive trend of the political thought of the day. The Democrats of New York State could well afford to look a little further before deciding that Mr. Shepard is the most available man to wear the Senatorial toga.

The reactionary newspapers of the country, especially of New York City, pretend to see in the Democratic landslide of November 8 a rebuke of Theodore Roosevelt and the New Nationalism and the permanent separation of that gentleman from political influence. The devious line of reasoning by which this is proved is as follows: Roosevelt worked for the nomination and election of Henry L. Stimson for Governor of New York, he wrote letters urging the defeat of Baldwin in Connecticut and made campaign speeches in Ohio, Indiana and Massachusetts. All these States went Democratic; ergo, the people do not like what Theodore Roosevelt said in Osawatomie, Kansas, and are almost unanimously opposed to his being made king. Just at what point the American people got over their dislike for the tariff bill, their despair at the high cost of living, their disgust at the Ballinger episode, in general their lack of confidence in William H. Taft, only to be stricken with acute Teddyphobia, the Sun, World, Times, Herald and Evening Post of New York fail to state. It is illustrative of the provincialism of these papers that they picture the entire nation spending sleepless nights over the fate of Dix and Stimson so that it may know what it thinks of Roosevelt.—A writer in Success Magazine.

It is hard to conceive that a respectable magazine would print rot like the above. The "line of reasoning" that killed Theodore Roosevelt was not that the people didn't like what he said at Osawatomie. It was that they didn't like his way of saying one thing at Osawatomie and an entirely different thing at Saratoga. His dictatorship, objectionable as it certainly was to a people who are in the habit of deciding their own problems, might have contributed substantially less to the discomfiture of his several pets if he had not convicted himself of flagrant insincerity.

The Country Salon.

This is the season when the people in the country gather at the school house or around the board of some opulent farmer of the neighborhood to partake of the delicious oyster; and, if the weather be favorable, the second course may consist of ice-cream and cake.

This combination would be considered by modern experts on dietetics to be ill chosen, if, indeed, not subversive of a healthy digestion, consequent to which there might follow a day of mental depression and physical inertia.

But to those strong and wholesome young men and maidens of our upland section where a knowledge of scientific food values, microbes, bacilli, and other related hindrances to gastronomical enjoyment, is of but casual significance, these periodic occasions are both commendable and significant.

These are instances when both young and old foregather unconsciously, it may be, yet nevertheless certainly, for social and cultural betterment. Such an occasion is consonant with the social banquet of the city; the place of meeting is the salon of the country side; and the principals who have the initiative generally are the salt of the community.

The function surpasses in many respects that of the city, since it is necessarily more democratic, being open to all neighboring families of respectability, without regard to caste, social distinction, or the effete rules of fashion.

Thus the man that carries the burden of the world is also one of its greatest civilizers; for it is to be observed that all civilizations have advanced socially in a measure commensurate with the length of the board and the number of platters.

THE SOLUTION OF A DEEP, DARK MYSTERY

As I entered the gloomy, forbidding structure, I noticed the massive walls and the small, high-placed, steel-barred windows.

"You take extraordinary precautions, monsieur," I said. "Do you often have trouble with your patients?"

"Non, m'sieu," replied the attendant who was acting as my guide through the famous Parisian maison d'alienes. "As you may pairceive, we are verree careful. We come now to the violent wards, m'sieu."

We walked slowly down the long corridor, on both sides of which, separated by barred partitions, were the unfortunate inmates. They were truly a wretched-looking lot, most of them heavily manacled, all with the wild light of insanity in their eyes.

"I have been anxious to inspect this place ever since I learned that here originate the women's fashions," I said.

My guide shrugged his shoulders. "What would you?" he replied. "Name of a pussy-cat! Long ago, sane people did get zem out, but zeir efforts were too much of a slowness, too—vhat you call 'tame.' Here originated ze enormous sleeve, ze gr-rande bustle, ze sheath skirt, and ze other belles toilettes. Over zere is our partie des chapeaux, m'sieu."

"Oh," I said. Then a sudden thought struck me. "Can you show me the inventor of the hobble-skirt?" I asked.

He looked dubious. "But yes," he said finally. "I vill show you."

I followed him down several flights of stairs to a cell far underground. When I first peered through the grating I could distinguish nothing. When my eyes became accustomed to the darkness, I made out a fearful-looking creature, hairy and ragged, and with long talon-like finger-nails. He was rapidly covering sheets of paper with grotesque designs by means of bits of charcoal. His eyes gleamed with an unearthly light, and he kept up a continual drooling, occasionally nodding his head, as if his work pleased him.

"This is one of our most valued patients," volunteered my guide. "He invented not only ze hobble skirt, but also ze hats ze ladies are wearing zis winter. Come away guietly, so as not to disturb him. He is working on ze new styles for next spring."

Marvelling greatly, I soon took leave of the courteous attendant, and came away. I am now looking forward wit considerable eagerness to seeing the new spring fashions.—December Lippincott's.

WILSON'S VISION OF A GREAT NATION

Governor-Elect, In Address on "Spirit of America," Points to Essentials of Greatness.

Trenton, Nov. 25.—"Restriction of immigration is not to be recommended, neither is its encouragement so desirable as the helping of the immigrant," declared Dr. Woodrow Wilson, Governor-elect of New Jersey, in a Thanksgiving address in Har Sinai Temple, this city, today. The subject of Dr. Wilson's address was "The Spirit of America," and his thoughts were expressed in the terse epigrams for which he has become famous. "Progress is a successful application of means to ends," was one of these; "God is still sifting the nations to plant the seed in America," another.

Dr. Wilson referred to the many elements that have entered into the building up of the American nation, and said that the occasional feelings of unrest that seems to sweep over the country are due to the fact that these formative elements have not yet been formed into a definite national life. "God is still sifting the nations to plant seed in America. Restriction of immigration is not to be recommended, neither is its encouragement so desirable as the helping of the immigrant."

Dr. Wilson defined progress as a movement toward a definite object, and the application of the best means to the best ends. Movement, he said, is not always progress. "True progress," he said, "consists of giving the best service to humanity. If America's object were to get the rest of the world under its heel and sap it for its own uses, that would not be progress. If America accumulates wealth in order to serve the rest of the world, that is progress, provided we know what service is."

DISPLAYED RARE PRESENCE OF MIND

Mrs. C. H. Whitaker Behind Runaway Horse Which She Could Not Control Did Not Jump But, Carefully Guiding Him, Steered Him To Safety.

Mrs. C. H. Whitaker was the central figure in a thrilling runaway yesterday morning on Market street. By extraordinary courage and presence of mind she saved herself and little son as well as others from injury.

Mrs. Whitaker lives west of town. She and her little son were driving into town. Their horse became frightened at a street car on West Market street and broke into a run.

Mrs. Whitaker was unable to control him. But she was able to guide him. So she held him in the middle of the street and steered him clear of other vehicles. He tore up Market street, across Elm at the square and dashed wildly on out East Market street. Looking down East Market street, a crowd of spectators at the square saw him dart underneath the Southern Railway bridge spanning East Market street and without any diminution of speed as far as could be seen from that distance.

Several people started in automobiles and other conveyances after the fast fleeing horse. When they overtook Mrs. Whitaker she had succeeded in stopping the horse far out on East Market street, a mile and a half or more from where he started.

Mrs. Whitaker came back to town in the same vehicle, a farmer who chanced to come along at the time the horse was stopped driving the horse back for her. Mrs. Whitaker's calmness following such a trying ordeal was generally remarked upon.

Authorized Capital Is a Hundred Thousand Dollars With $25,000 Paid In—Several Other Charters Issued—Collections In Raleigh On Thanksgiving—Defendant Arranges to Plead Guilty and Grand Jury Returns "Not a True Bill."

Raleigh, Nov. 25.—Among the new corporations chartered today was The Merchants' and Farmers' Bank of Rowland, Robeson county. It has a capital of $100,000, and $17,000 paid in by J. H. McArn, E. M. Hines and others. The Guilford Realty and Insurance Co., of Greensboro, is another new corporation. It has $100,000 capital authorized and $25,000 paid in by H. R. Bush, J. W. Fry, G. W. Patterson and others. Other charters are to The Southmount Realty Co., Lexington, capital $25,000 by G. M. Stephens, R. L. Spaugh and others; and W. R. Newberry (Inc.) Magnolia, capital $25,000 authorized and $5,000 subscribed by W. R. Newberry and Mrs. W. R. Newberry, the latter holding nearly all the stock.

The Corporation Commission is still striving to get the people of Fayetteville and the authorities of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad together on the question of the plans for the new passenger station that the Coast Line has finally agreed to erect instead of doing extensive repairs on the old station as at first proposed. There was a hearing today in which exceptions to the plans on the part of citizens of Fayetteville were presented and the position of the railroad company in opposing the demands of the citizens in their demands were heard. The differences are principally as to details. The station is to cost something like $30,000. Major E. J. Hale headed the delegation from Fayetteville and the interests of the railroad company were represented by Assistant Counsel George B. Elliott, of Wilmington.

The collections in the Raleigh churches Thanksgiving Day for the various denominational orphanages aggregated over $700. The largest contributions were by the two Episcopal churches, Christ church contributing $200 and the Church of the Good Shepherd $125. These donations go to the Thomson Orphanage at Charlotte.

Big increase in the volume of mail in and out of Raleigh is indicated by the recent appointment of a third clerk at the union passenger station transfer station and by the appointment of an additional night clerk for the Raleigh postoffice. Arrangements have been made for the use of wagons for two days just before Christmas for facilitating the delivery of holiday mail. Postmaster Briggs is arranging for the usual postoffice station in the State House for the accommodation of legislators and clerks during the approaching session of the Legislature.

Thomas B. Johns entered a plea of guilty today in the Federal court on the charge of using the United States mails in an attempt to defraud and intimidate his aunt, Mrs. Mattie H. Johns, of West Raleigh some months ago. Judge Connor has not yet passed sentence on the young man. He was a clerk in the offices of the Seaboard Air Line freight department here and was having some correspondence with the administrator of the Eccles estate, Charlotte, in which he had an inheritance interest and a letter intended for him from the executor was delivered to Mrs. Mattie H. Johns, his aunt occasioning a long delay in his receiving the letter. He claimed that his aunt had damaged him and threatened to have her prosecuted for interfering with his mail if she did not compensate him. He finally named $250 as the amount that would satisfy him and induce him to drop his threatened prosecution. The check was sent to him by the aunt, who at the same time reported the case to the postoffice inspectors who were on hand when he presented his check for collection at the bank. Johns is single and is about 35 years old.

A remarkable incident occurred in the court this morning. District Attorney Seawell had consented to allow a certain defendant in a blockading case to submit to the charge of guilty and save the time and expense of grand jury and trial. But about the time that this arrangement was made the grand jury filed into the court room and reported this case among others as "not a true bill," thus putting the case out of court after the request of the defendant to plead guilty had been agreed to by the prosecution.

The marble bust of the lamented United States Senator Matt W. Ransom, provided through the co-operation of the State Historical Commission and a committee of citizens who contributed the funds for this work, is to be unveiled in the rotunda of the State House Friday evening, January 13, the bust to be placed in one of the four niches in the rotunda set aside for statuary of historic interest. This will be the second to be placed there, the bust of Hon. William A. Graham having been unveiled there nearly a year ago. The unveiling ceremony will be the final feature of an annual session of the North Carolina Literary and Historical Association which convenes on Thursday, January 12 with Associate Justice Platt D. Walker, of the Supreme Court as president. There will be morning and afternoon sessions on Friday when there will be addresses by Dr. Mims, Dr. D. H. Hill and R. D. W. Connor.

For the unveiling exercises at night there will be addresses eulogistic of Senator Ransom by ex-Judge R. W. Winston and ex-Governor Jarvis and the presentation of the bust to the state by Col. J. Bryan Grimes for the Historical Commission and its acceptance by Governor Kitchin.

T. T. Ballinger, of Tyron and Capt. R. H. Ricks, of Rocky Mount, have just completed an inspection of the agricultural department of the A. & M. College with a view to making suggestions as to improvements that might be made. The lamented Sheriff J. T. Ellington, of Smithfield was the third member of this committee. Committeeman Ballinger and Ricks will make a report on their findings later. They expressed themselves as much pleased.

Ladies Go Hunting.

Mrs. Lula B. Carr, Mrs. Blanche Carr and Master Wilfred Carr returned yesterday afternoon from Trinity where they spent Thanksgiving. Accompanied by a number of Trinity ladies Mesdames Carr went rabbit hunting Thursday and were most successful, the party bagging no less than fifteen cottontails. At night the ladies struck the trail again and in a few hours two opossums had been caught. The ladies decline to state whether they cut down the trees in the 'possum chase or carried along an expert chopper for this purpose. They state, however, that they had the time of their lives and intend to go hunting again in the near future.

The Important Problem

confronting anyone in need of a laxative is not a question of a single action only, but of permanently beneficial effects, which will follow proper efforts to live in a healthful way, with the assistance of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, whenever it is required, as it cleanses the system gently yet promptly, without irritation and will therefore always have the preference of all who wish the best of family laxatives.

The combination has the approval of physicians because it is known to be truly beneficial, and because it has given satisfaction to the millions of well-informed families who have used it for many years past.

AFTER EFFECTS OF THE GRIP

It is fortunate that the Grip epidemic this year is milder in its action than in previous years. This does not mean that it is less dangerous.

The after results of the Grip are apt to be exceeding serious. Do not take any chances,—for the general weakness, and to allay all bronchial irritation after the fever has passed, nothing equals Vinol, which is a delicious combination of the healthgiving properties of the cod's liver, with the grease eliminated and tonic iron added.

A lady from Long Branch, N. J., writes:—"The Grip left me in a nervous, weakened, run-down condition. After taking three bottles of Vinol I am better and stronger than I have been for years, and I cheerfully recommend Vinol to all who have been ill and need strength." (Name furnished on request.)

After Grip or any severe illness try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not restore your vitality and strength. Farriss-Klutz Drug Co., Greensboro, N. C.

TAR AND FEATHERS.

A Coat of These Means Excruciating Torture to the Victim.

People who read of tarring and feathering know that the punishment is a very unpleasant one, but few imagine how terribly painful and dangerous it is. Hardened tar is very hard to remove from the skin, and when feathers are added it forms a kind of cement that sticks closer than a brother. As soon as the tar sets the victim's suffering begins. It contracts as it cools, and every one of the little veins on the body is pulled, causing the most exquisite agony. The perspiration is entirely stopped, and unless the tar is removed death is certain to ensue.

But the removal is no easy task and requires several days. The tar cannot be softened by the application of heat and must be peeled off bit by bit, sweet oil being used to make the process less painful. The irritation to the skin is very great, as the hairs cannot be disengaged, but must be pulled out or cut off. No man can be cleaned of tar in a single day, as the pain of the operation would be too excruciating for endurance, and until this is done he has to suffer from a pain like that of 10,000 pin pricks. Numbers of men have died under the torture, and none who have gone through it regard tar and feathering as anything but a most fearful infliction.

Will Promote Beauty.

Women desiring beauty get wonderful help from Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It banishes pimples, skin eruptions, sores and boils. It makes the skin soft and velvety. It glorifies the face. Cures sore eyes, cold sores, cracked lips, chapped hands. Best for burns, scalds, fever sores, cuts, bruises, and piles. 25c. at Fariss-Klutz Drug Co.

Saves an Iowa Man's Life.

The very grave seemed to yawn before Robert Madsen, of West Burlington, Iowa, when, after seven weeks in the hospital, four of the best physicians gave him up. Then was shown the marvelous curative power of Electric Bitters. For, after eight months of frightful suffering from liver trouble and yellow jaundice, getting no help from other remedies or doctors, five bottles of this matchless medicine completely cured him. Its positively guaranteed for Stomach, Liver or Kidney troubles and never disappoints. Only 50 c. at Fariss-Klutz Drug Co.

Hexamethylenetetramine.

Is the name of a German chemical, one of the many valuable ingredients of Foley's Kidney Remedy. Hexamethylenetetramine is recognized by medical text books and authorities as a uric acid solvent and anti-septic for the urine. Take Foley's Kidney Remedy promptly at the first sign of kidney trouble and avoid a serious malady. Howard Gardner.

Certificate of Dissolution.

To All to Whom These Presents May Come—Greeting:

Whereas, it appears to my satisfaction, by duly authenticated record of the proceedings for the voluntary dissolution thereof by the unanimous consent of all the stockholders, deposited in my office, that the Aden Manufacturing Company, a corporation of this State, whose principal office is situated at No. ——— Street, in the City of Greensboro, County of Guilford, State of North Carolina (Joseph Aden being the agent therein and in charge thereof, upon whom process may be served) has complied with the requirements of Chapter 21, Revisal of 1905, entitled "Corporations" preliminary to the issuing of this certificate of dissolution:

Now, Therefore, I, J. Bryan Grimes, Secretary of State of the State of North Carolina, do hereby certify that the said corporation did, on the 21st day of November 1910, file in my office a duly executed and attested consent in writing to the dissolution of said corporation, executed by all of the stockholders thereof, which said consent and the records of the proceedings aforesaid are now on file in my said office as provided by law.

In Testimony Whereof, I have hereto set my hand and affixed my official seal, at Raleigh, this the 21st day of November A. D. 1910.

J. BRYAN GRIMES,
(Official Seal). Secretary of State.

THE DR. WAS IN A CYCLONE

Dr. B. N. Alsworth, the physician of Purvis, Mississippi, writes interesting details about the cyclone that devastated that section. We quote: "I suppose you saw a notice in the papers that we had a cyclone on the 24th of May. It swept our litle town about off the earth. Thank Providence, myself and family came out alive, but my drug store was swept to the winds. I found four bottles Fultons' Renal Compound unbroken and gave them to a lady whom the other physicians had given up (kidney disease). She came to me as soon as she heard that I had returned to my practice again, and I put her on the Renal Compound and she is now nearly well. But I need more, and you will please send me another dozen of the Renal Compound from your nearest shipping point.

"In haste.

"B N. ALSWORTH, M. D."

How can people who have any kind of kidney trouble expect to get well on the old futile kidney patents when the census deaths show that ninety-two out of every hundred of them passed out from a form of the disease that was incurable up to the date that Fulton worked out his Renal Compound?

Due to the futility of the old-time kidney medicines, the kidney deaths now number one every nine minutes.

THE DEAREST GIFT.

A Pathetic Incident In the Life of Robert Browning.

A young American woman was traveling one day in an Italian railway coach, the only other occupant of the compartment being an elderly gentleman. Observing the interest of the young woman in the country through which they were passing and seeing also that it was new to her, the more experienced traveler pointed out objects and places of note.

From scenery the conversation drifted to books and authors, until something suggested to the young American one of Elizabeth Barrett Browning's sonnets, which she quoted.

She was astonished and abashed because the gentleman made no reply, but during the rest of the ride sat looking intently out of the window, having apparently forgotten the very existence of his traveling companion.

As they neared the station where the young lady was to leave the car she said timidly:

"I fear, sir, that I have offended you. Perhaps you do not like Mrs. Browning's poetry."

The man slowly turned upon her tear dimmed eyes, and in a voice full of emotion he said:

"Madam, that sonnet is the sweetest, as its singer was the dearest, gift God ever gave to me."

SAGE CASH TO BUILD MODEL RURAL CITY

Foundation Established by Financier's Widow to Provide 1500 Families Homes.

New York, Nov. 25.—The preliminary plans of the Russell Sage Foundation, established by Mrs. Sage as a memorial to her husband for the establishment of a model suburban city, providing healthy and beautiful home for persons of moderate means, were announced today. The project is to utilize a tract of 142 acres of land at Forest Hills Gardens, L. I., nine miles from this city, in laying out a town for 1500 families. The initial financial expenditures for the purpose amount to $2,250,000. How much more will be needed to carry the plans to completion is not known, but the Foundation trustees state that Mrs. Sage is prepared to supply all the funds required to carry out her ideas.

Through today's announcement it is made plain that the enterprise is not a charity, but is to be made self-supporting and yield a fair return on the investment. Its purpose, rather, is to enable persons in moderate circumstances to own their own homes at a minimum cost, while obtaining buildings of better construction than the average individual could erect and amid surroundings and under restrictions that will make the little city an ideal residence place. The minimum cost of paying for a home there, it is estimated, will be $25 a month, including principal and interest.

The officers of the Foundation, who are associated with Mrs. Sage in the enterprise, are Robert W. Deforest, president; Edward H. Bouton, vice president; Cleveland H. Dodge, treasurer, and John M. Glenn, general director. The statements outlining their plans were issued from President Deforest's office this afternoon.

For the present laboring men, whose wages are small, will not benefit directly from Mrs. Sage's enterprise. The cost of land in Forest Hill, it is explained, precludes provision being made there for the working classes. Intimation that they will be cared for later, however, is giving in Deforest's statement, which says:

"Some people may ask why the first housing plan of the Sage Foundation does not provide for the laboring man whose wages are small. The Sage Foundation has not forgotten the laboring man. It may be ready to announce something for his benefit later on."

In this connection it is pointed out that Mrs. Sage owns another tract of land on Long Island, although not promise is made that it will be devoted to a model city for laborers.

Forest Hills Gardens is to be made a real "spotless town" as nearly as money and skill can make it, according to the announcement. It has been laid out by Frederick Law Olmsted, a landscape gardener, and its architectural development will be closely scrutinized by Grosvenor Atterbury. Applicants for homes there will have to submit to examination to their character and antecedents. From the point of respectability the community is to be a real aristocracy, financial standing being a secondary consideration.

The railroad station will be situated in the public square, forming the entrance to the community. This square will be surrounded with ornamental buildings containing the business offices, stores and shops. A village green of two and one-half acres will add to the picturesqueness of the entrance gate and square. Bridges will connect with the railway station and entrances to apartments, so that commuters may enter and leave trains from their apartments without exposure in stormy weather.

Miles—Walker.

On Wednesday evening the Presbyterian church at Milton was the scene of a beautiful church wedding when Miss Margaret Wilson Walker became the bride of Mr. Percy Watson Miles, of Kittrell. Mr. A. R. Perkins and Miss Katie Watkins, of this city, were attendants at the wedding. After the ceremony a reception was held. On Thursday a reception was tendered the members of the wedding party.
